

where the heart is

The first Residential Leaders survey takes us home

We pride ourselves, here at Interior Design, not just on the broadest possible coverage of the design world but also on our ever deepening knowledge of specific sectors. Each year, we collect and curate data to form clear pictures of business trends for our top 100 Giants firms, the Rising Giants just behind, and the Giants in hospitality and health care. Now we are focusing on the firms working in the blooming residential sector.

Over the course of several months, we carefully developed our questions for Interior Design's first business survey of Residential Leaders. Then we sent them out with high hopes. We weren't disappointed by the results. Nearly 200 firms—massive entities, individual practitioners, and everything in between—responded with detailed information about their business operations.

Because of the diversity of the respondents, we chose to present our list alphabetically rather than by size or work volume. The information we've collected serves as a terrific window onto the residential landscape. Everybody loves a good view! We hope you find it as intriguing and enlightening as we have. However, as committed overachievers, we're already thinking about how to expand and enhance the survey for 2016. If you don't see your firm in these listings, please let us know. You belong here. ➤
